Patriot News

What a week this has been! The UN General Assembly convened in New York; President Trump gave a very good speech which was overshadowed on most of MSM by an angry teenager from Sweden who gave world leaders a real ass-whippin' because they have stolen her childhood and are sitting idly by while "mass extinction" looms on the horizon. Then we have the announcement by Speaker Pelosi that our President needs to be impeached because of treasonous crimes that he committed during a phone call with the President of Ukraine and, goaded by the more radical members of her Caucus, she is just the person to get the ball rolling. And now we have the pack of dogs that is the House Intelligence Committee (the chairman of which calls into question the name of the committee) browbeating the Acting Director of National Intelligence in an attempt to get him to agree that the whistleblower complaint needs to be investigated.

Throughout this month we have had the Democratic contenders for nomination shrieking non-stop in their efforts to outdo one another with their "progressiveness" and their desire to send the US into an economic and cultural tailspin. A few more have dropped out but our own Governor Bullock hangs in there for some unknown reason (methinks ego and greed, but I could be wrong). As of this date, it appears that it will get down to Biden and Warren, allowing the Dems to choose between a sneaky, creepy old dude and an equally sneaky, greedy old woman (that's not to say that both of them are not creepy AND greedy).

Meanwhile, here in Montana, we have Senator Daines and Representative Gianforte joining forces with Jon Tester to push the CSKT Water Compact through Congress. Daines is spearheading the effort and is trying to present it as a "rework" of the Compact that passed through our State Legislature by somewhat nefarious means. And don't forget that Gianforte is walking away from his House seat to run for Governor. Do we want another Governor that will push that Compact down the throats of Montanans? I get that he is appealing to the Tribal voting bloc, but what is Daines' excuse? My calls to their offices have so far gone unanswered.

Will you be able to stand this chaos for the next 13 months? I'm not sure I can. Email us at lastchancepatriots@gmail.com to share your thoughts.

Refugee Resettlement Missoula

Between July 24th and September 27th, fifteen refugees were resettled in Missoula. Nine of the refugees were from the Democratic Republic of Congo and six were from Syria. These numbers bring the total for FY19 (Oct 1, 2018 – September 30, 2019) to 97: 83 from DRC, 1 from Eritrea, 4 from Iraq and 9 from Syria. Barring three more refugees arriving on Monday, September 30th, this leaves Missoula's resettlement office three short of the target of 100 refugees.

As I reported in August, the State Department plans to close down any offices that settled fewer than 100 refugees in FY19. The IRC, which is the proprietor of the Missoula office has been campaigning non-stop in protest of this move because their very lucrative business model is threatened.

The other bit of news to keep in mind is that on Thursday it was announced that the President has proposed a cap of 18,000 refugees to be resettled in FY20. This is the lowest number in the history of the program: a drop of 12,000 from FY 2019 and a drastic drop from President Obama's proposal of 110,000 for FY17. The contractors who depend upon the largesse of our government are screaming! At this time, it is likely that the 18,000 number will hold but given all the chaos in DC, who knows?

The Kindergarten Debates

The Left is Bringing America to a New Low

My daughter used to teach kindergarten. Listening to her during those years confirmed that kids do say the darnedest things. As I read proposals from the herd of Democrats vying for President it sounds like a kindergarten class when asked 'what would you do if you were President?' Let's imagine we're listening in to these original ideas from the Democratic candidates.

Student, Marianne Williamson, a New Age self-help Author says she would defeat President Trump by calling out the love in America. She proposes we need a Department of Peace.

Then we have student Beto O'Rourke, the Irishman who self identifies as Hispanic who wants to buy back every weapon in America as well as cooling the planet. And if you don't turn your gun in. O'Rourke says he supports forcibly confiscating them. Of course, he also wants the government to pay for everyone in America who lives in a flood plain to move to higher ground. Beto also wants statehood for Puerto Rico. Would he pay for all Puerto Ricans to move to higher ground since the whole island is a flood plain in hurricane alley?

One of the older students in the class, Bernie Sanders, who was held back a couple of years, says he has a plan to eliminate all medical debt in the country. He also said he has a plan to relieve all student loan debt and implement the New Green Deal at the cost of a mere $16 trillion. That is with a 'T' the teacher pointed out. When asked how he would prioritize, he said, "We must do it all." He further firmly stated the earth could not sustain the current birth rate and 'something' must change.

A student by the name of Elizabeth Warren, who until recently identified as a Native American, says she will eliminate all fossil fuels. She will not replace any of our requirements with nuclear energy. Little Miss Warren was emphatic on CNN. She also wants to ensure that all weapons manufactured do not have the ability 'to fire weapons in a short period of time.' She was not more specific than that, and most of the class was puzzled.

Another remedial student, Joe Biden, who was back from a suspension for breathing down the necks of girls in his class, said he would take millions of vehicles off the road by building high-speed rail. He was sure he'd proposed that before. He also said banning guns would not be a violation of the 2nd Amendment. Earlier he'd said that Americans don't pay attention to the Constitution anyway. He went to the Principals office for saying he would 'go after' the new President of Brazil because he reminded him of President Trump.

Amy Klobucher, a new student, announced the climate is her big focus. No new coal plants and she isn't sure about nuclear plants. She is also very sad that there are fires in the Amazon and recently said she would do what Obama did when he was President.

Student Kamala Harris, who has had some behavior problems and identifies as African American, said as President she'd ban plastic straws nationwide. She would also force manufacturers to 'perfect' paper straws which are challenging to use. Ms. Harris believes that what people are eating in America should be decided at the highest level of government.

Another new student that no one seemed to know is Andrew Yang. Little Mr. Yang feels that it's possible to 'seed clouds' to reduce the effect of climate change. He also thinks that if people were vegetarians, that would solve a lot of problems since cow farts cause a lot of earth' issues. Yang appears to be a bit ahead of the rest of his class. He wants to change the 100-year measurement of Gross Domestic Product to a more 'environmentally responsible' measure.

Julian Castro, a real Hispanic student, proposed we should set aside half of all land in the United States for animals and to protect the climate. He wasn't sure where he would find the property. Mr. Castro also feels that 'environmental racism' is a significant problem that he would address. The class seemed to be losing interest at this point.

That's when teachers' pet Steve Bullock announced his big idea — creating an Office of Rural Affairs. New student Michael Bennett had a big idea. Universal Pre-School. Amidst the unknowns in the class, Julian Castro, who already had a turn stood to declare no one was listening to him. He had another idea. Open up our Refugee Program for all 'climate refugees.' He couldn't name any current locations, but then again we are in kindergarten.

Lastly, Cory Booker, the only real African American in the class, said his idea was a mere $3 Trillion climate program for environmental justice. He also wants to spend $400 Billion to create a clean energy workforce.

That's when a little boy that had gone unnoticed with his hand in the air made himself heard. Student Pete Buttigieg, who identifies as gay, wanted to spend just $1.1 Trillion on the climate while making America the leader of the world. Pete also wants Medicare for all, the forgiveness of student loans and thinks we should celebrate Vietnam Veterans Day.

In the end, the big surprise was the entire class of Democratic kindergartners had an idea. A Senior came into the class by the name of Ms. Pelosi. She announced a new Democratic resolution which read in part, "religiously unaffiliated Americans overwhelmingly share the Democratic Party's values and have often been subjected to unfair bias and exclusion in American society." Aren't you surprised, since all religion, except Islam of course, can't be discussed in school anymore anyway? The teacher said, 'Class dismissed.'

Everything written above is positions of those illustrious wannabe leaders running for President of the United States. Are we reaching new lows in American leadership, or have we gone insane? You be the Judge.

Update: American Prairie Reserve

Many of you have probably seen the announcement that the American Prairie Reserve has modified their request to the BLM for year-round grazing rights on public lands. Last year they had requested rights on 18 BLM allotments and 20 state leases covering 290,000 acres. Their new proposal requests seasonal grazing on five BLM allotments and five state leases, totaling about 48,000 acres.

Also included in the original proposal was a request to remove interior fencing on the allotments which, not surprisingly, was met with stiff opposition from the neighboring ranchers who have had grazing leases on the land for many years. The new proposal requests only “slight modifications” to interior fences.

APR claims that the revised proposal is a show of their good faith and neighborliness. To the contrary, it is perceived by the ranchers as merely a tactic being used in an attempt to calm the strong and very public opposition to the long-term goals of APR. In an interview about their “compromise”, APR representatives made it very clear that their intention to develop the largest wildlife preserve in the lower 48 states is not open to “compromise”. This is a PR move, plain and simple. APR faced significant public opposition to their original proposal, making it unlikely that the BLM would grant their request. APR is smart, well-funded and patient. Rest assured, this will be a long, hard-fought battle that is not dissimilar to battles being fought every day in the US and around the world: globalists vs. the rest of us!

Brushfires Around the Republic

A look around our great Nation to see what is happening in our Republic.

DATELINE:

- Washington, DC: Socialism is Popular. In a short eight-month period, the approval figure went from 43% to 49%, a six-point increase. Opposition likewise dropped six points. Only madness and total ignorance believe that there is a free lunch. Click here for more.
- Miami, FL: Another Misunderstood Muslim. Abdul-Majeed Marouf Ahmed Alani, a Muslim migrant from Iraq who up until recently was a plane mechanic for American Airlines at Miami International Airport (MIA), was, he said, so proud to be a Union Man that he tried to murder 150 people because of a union dispute. That was his initial story, anyway, and everyone bought it – after all, whoever heard of a Muslim being involved in sabotaging an airline? Click here for more.
- Sacramento, CA: Who would have thought ... Healthcare Fraud. Perhaps even worse than the millions of taxpayer dollars lost to these alleged cheats—medical doctors and other medical professionals—is the fact that they diagnosed people with major illnesses that the patients didn't have! Imagine if you stay at home in 2020 and elect the Democrats? Click here for more.

Tidbits From Around the Last Best Place

In news around the Big Sky this month, it's hard to tell where to begin.

DATELINE:

- Helena: Senator Steve Daines Tosses Montanan's Under the Tribal Bus. It appears that Montana Senator Steve Daines has rendered his oath of office irrelevant and tossed his ethics out the window, all for the relentless placation of one ethnic preference. He is throwing Montana citizens, farmers, irrigators and landowners under the bus by surrendering everything to one tribal government, to the perpetual harm of Montanans. Click Here for More.
  - Billings: Non-Native Community Needs to Step up to Solve Native Problems. When it comes to challenges facing the indigenous community and missing and murdered indigenous people, get involved, get educated, and be an advocate — especially if you're not Native American. That's the message panelists shared Thursday while discussing indigenous communities during the Yellowstone Boys and Girls Ranch's day-long Communities in Crisis conference.
